Three teams from across Zone 7 took home the medals on Sunday from the 10-team U 14 Girls Softball Provincials, hosted by Elk Point Pumas and Elk Point Minor Ball.

Provost was the big winner, taking home the trophy and the gold after a hard-fought victory over the silver winning St. Paul Storm, while one diamond over, Bonnyville Angels easily downed the Red Deer Rage to take home the bronze medals. More details on the tournament on Page 2.

This weekend, Elk Point Bantam Sox will play host to the AA Tier 4 Provincials.

ST. PAUL STORM took home the silver after a hard-fought final game.

BONNYVILLE ANGELS claimed bronze with a win over Red Deer Rage.

Garden tour of St. Paul, Elk Point bursting with beauty

JANANI WHITFIELD
Review Staff

Hours and hours of work, labours of love to craft an oasis of peace in flowers and trees were admired by garden enthusiasts last Tuesday, as the Community Garden Society of St. Paul presented its annual garden tour around St. Paul and Elk Point.

The first 55 participants to express interest were registered and signed up to spend the day driving in the Xtreme Oilfield bus to visit homes in the area, a feast for the eyes and sense.

Sue deMoissac, a board member for Town of St. Paul FCSS and an organizer for the tour, said she has been going on the tours for the six years they have been going on, but only started to help with organization last year.

"I'm a gardener, and I love seeing what other people do," she said.

The tour began in the Town of St. Paul, with visitors touring Joan and Ken Brodziak's home, Liz and Walter Warren's place, Carolyn and John Yewchin's home, and the Auxiliary Hospital. As lunch time progressed though, the garden enthusiasts and gardeners could see the dark storm clouds approaching, and were a bit apprehensive about warnings of a thunder storm.

Girls Provincials largest tournament to date

I'd have to admit that the Pee wee Girls Provincials was the biggest tournament Elk Point Minor Ball has ever hosted.

We have done many eight team midget boys provincial tournaments in the past, but this was 10 teams and maybe because it was a younger group and three of the teams were very close neighbours, Bonnyville, Vermilion and St. Paul, it brought people out. It was the most by far I would say, that we have had at any of our tournaments. A terrific job was done by the hosting committee to make it happen . The grounds keepers did an excellent job after every game; being able to prep two diamonds every two hours that fast is incredible. The booth was busy all weekend and ran out of stock numerous times.

And our host team made us proud, after losing two games the first day, the second one very close, the girls bounced right back, winning two games the second day, sending them to a tie breaker game against Red Deer at 7 p.m. Saturday night, the winner going to the semi finals. Perhaps they should call the heartbreaker game, the girls didn't quite make it, but they did play well overall and gained valuable experience playing at the provincial level. Hats off to the coaching staff of Teresa Boratynec, Kim Wallington and Jennifer Gochko for a job well done.

A big thanks to the golf course grounds crew Brayden Vinge, Hanna Ludlage and Taylor Cochrane for the wonderful job they have done all year on keeping the grass cut and the grounds looking terrific, and to Don Anderson who came out with his bobcat more than once a turned up the diamonds, and to Jay Duffee and the town crew for all their help before the tournament and especially during when we have the sewer back up!

As it turned out however, the afternoon ended up being free from downpours, giving participants a chance to saunter in warm, blissful gardens of paradise.

The first stop on the afternoon tour was Blandine Adkins' Elk Point area home. Adkins said she very rarely had outsiders come to visit her garden, a whimsical fairyland that featured antiques and light-hearted signs decorating the place, proclaiming things like "It's sunny - I'm so excited I've wet my plants."

deMoissac noted Adkins built the garden for her own enjoyment rather than for visitors originally, which Adkins agreed with, adding -

"Yes - but it's kind of nice to share it!"

Adkins explains that she only started gardening in earnest 10 years ago; before that, she was working, and there was no time. Over that last decade, she has grown the place more and more, adding antiques given to her by friends or purchased at garage sales, and turning a chicken coop into a lovingly furnished summer cottage, with antique stoves and tables gracing the sun-lit space.

Of her ideas, such as an old bike spray-painted white or graceful lilies and jackmanni clematis creeping over a metal archway leading to an old wood facade, Adkins says she finds inspiration within herself, rather than scouring Pinterest or the web.

"It just comes naturally," she says.

"This is delightful - I don't know where to look," said Mona McGinnis as she walked through a shaded boardwalk framed by flowers. McGinnis added she had been a work colleague of Adkins but had never seen her handiwork outside of work.

"I knew she gardened but I had no idea it was like this. Isn't it a feast for the eyes?"

The next stop on the tour was Denise and Jules Fontaine's home, east of St. Paul, featuring wide open spaces, perfectly manicured hedges and interspersed with horse-drawn machinery everywhere, which participants noted added "character" to the garden. A hail storm had just passed, which left the garden with white hail stones melding with the greenery to make for a cross between a summer and winter wonderland.

Jules and the gardeners shared some frustrations about dandelions and fighting the vile weed, before everyone piled back into the bus to check out the last garden stop, the feature of the day, at Roxanne and Terry Allen's home.

Participants saved a few "Oohs" for the lush space, overlooking a vast expanse of open fields and hills.

A charcoal grey circular path led visitors past flowers, trees, shrubs and a waterfall over rocks, with Terry explaining he hadn't wanted to see a single square edge or corner in the space. The garden features multiple levels, with second levels featuring a vegetable garden and a fire pit, and a third highest level featuring a deck with lounge chairs, tables and a space to look at the whole scene and relax.

The whole garden is lit up by night, with nothing to listen to but the sound of water tumbling over the rocks, with Terry explaining that as the owner for Kal-Tire, he finds his days are very busy responding to several people and hopping. When he comes home to his garden, it's to retreat from those noises and demands.

"I'm all about colour. I love plants. I love to sit out here and feel peaceful," he says, adding he took a lot of pride in the garden that he had designed, and goes to great lengths to preserve it, even if means picking out "every darn dandelion by hand."

The Allens have been working on this garden for the past five years, he said.

"It was in my head," he said of his vision for the garden, when he first moved into the home that was surrounded by simply dirt. He hired a few people to help build a low brick wall around the path, as well as to help with landscaping, but the vision was his to dream and his to realize.

Little touches along the way, like adding little wheelbarrows to fill with flowers or a cream can with flowers, are also his, but he says he could add a lot more.

"It's like a dreamland," said Sophie Brodziak, who declared the Allens' "absolutely gorgeous" yard her personal favourite from the tour, calling it something straight out of a storybook.

However, deMoissac noted that the whole tour featured a lot of variety, something for everyone, whether it was quaint and homey or spare and modern, and Brodziak agreed, giving organizers credit for their good planning.

Like many other participants, Marie Plante noted how "wonderful" the featured gardens were, noting that sometimes, the attendants visit places like Edmonton's Muttart Conservatory or the Devonian gardens but they don't even have to go that far to see beauty.

"When you look around, there are so many nice places around here - you don't even know."

Play ball!

That's been the cry around Elk Point this weekend, as Elk Point Minor Ball hosted the U14D Girls baseball provincials, and it will be again this coming weekend when Elk Point Bantam Sox host the Tier IV provincials.

You may find this week's issue a little bit sports-heavy, but that is because we are a community that has been found more than capable of hosting province wide events, due to a hardworking Minor Ball association and a large array of willing volunteers.

Provincials bring a large number of visitors to our community, and are a boost to our economy. Welcome to all the teams and their families; we hope you enjoy your stay and will come back and see us again soon!

...And there are still lots more people to thank for their efforts on Canada Day that played a huge role in another successful celebration.

Denise Bjorkman once again did a fantastic job MCing the afternoon performances, I hear she's working on a rocker chick for next year (yes, Denise, I've already signed you up!)

The Rock Foundation did an outstanding job hosting the beer gardens, everyone I talked to mentioned it was a great atmosphere and a welcomed addition to the celebrations. A special thanks to Jay and Tessa Pankiw, Tyler and Joanne Warwara and Teresa Boratyniec for organizing the event, as well as Survivor Challenge.

The Elk Point Theatre Group held the concession at the arena and cleaned up the field the day after. The food was delicious and it helped raise money for microphones for their annual production. I thought Annie Jr was fabulous and I cannot wait to see next year's show!

The Elk Point Lions and Community Lions handle the parade, both organizing the line up and judging the floats. It's not an easy task and I commend them for taking it on year after year.

To the Friends of the Library for hosting pancake breakfast each year, waking up super early to start the flipping - thank you! And Lakeland Realty for the delicious ice cream treat after our pancakes.

I'd like to thank the Town's public works department; they start setting up days before the event and are there to make sure any problems that may arise are handled quickly and efficiently. Jay Duffee has been doing it so long he doesn't even need instructions, total pro!

Thanks to Councillors Deb McQuinn and Bernice Capjack. Both work very hard in ensuring the celebrations are the pride of Elk Point.

The staff at the Town Office, Ken, Lynn, Brooke, Maria and Jenny help me in so many ways it's hard to name them all. I truly appreciate all the work you put into the event. Trust me it does not go unnoticed. P.S. - Lynn picked out the candy for the float and I think we can all say how tasty it was!

And to Vicki Brooker, always there to capture every moment for our town! She's a class act and a true treasure in our community.

To anyone I've forgotten - trust me,, it's not on purpose! Thank you all!

High water, provincial ball wins, 20 years for riding arena

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JULY 26 IN...

1986

The North Saskatchewan River came within a nerve-racking three feet from the road level in Heinsburg, where the school and several teachers were in immediate danger of flooding, and covered riverside roads west of Highway 41 in numerous spots as it crept toward farmyards. Optimism remained the name of the game as oil companies financing heavy oil recovery projects in the area carried on as usual despite a six-month slump in oil prices.

1991

Elk Point Pink Pounders bantam girls won bronze at the provincial bantam baseball championships in Thorhild. Pioneer Circle Society executive members Lillian Palinka, John Williams, Hazel Hannah and Olga Ruzycki took a big step forward as they unlocked the door of their newly acquired building, destined to become the Seniors' Recreation Centre.

1996

Elk Point seniors brought home five gold medals from the Alberta Seniors' Games, Pearl Bepalko winning the 70+ Ladies Low Gross in golf, Florence Demchuk and Jeannette Frisby winning 55+ Ladies' Oldtime Dancing, Marjorie Osinchuk the 55-64 Individual Quilt and Sid Holthe the Serious Non-Fiction division of creative writing. Things were wild and western at Whitney Lake's annual rodeo, where former local cowboy Derek Hehr ended up in a three-way tie in the bullriding and David Bensmiller of Dewberry was the runner-up in Junior Bull Riding.

2001

Mayor Ed Buck and longtime ball supporter Phil Sheplawy officiated in the ceremonial first pitch as Elk Point White Sox hosted the Midget 'A' Provincials, with Wainwright going undefeated in their quest for gold. Danielle Schnurer, Joan Wheat, Meagan Parker, Jill Wheat, Kim Lebold, Chelsea Schnurer and Jamie Schnurer took part in the Elk Point Saddle Slickers 4-H achievement day.

2006

The Midget Sox won the Provincials tournament consolation, but the championship game between Edmonton and Cochrane was first delayed by a down-pour and then called to a halt at 10 p.m. because of darkness, leaving the win undecided. It was another above average year for campground attendance in the area.

2011

Elk Point and District Agricultural Society's C. G. Baker Riding Arena celebrated its 20th anniversary d with a huge and enthusiastic influx of more than 100 barrel racers and an unprecedented 238 teams of ropers who kept the action going from early Saturday morning until late Sunday evening. Elk Point Midget Sox prepared to travel to Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House for the Tier 1 provincial final.

Area high schools rank high

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

The results are in and although the Fraser Institute's annual report cards on provincial schools can sometimes carry some criticisms, this year's results showcase the hard work being done in local schools, with Mallaig School coming out on top as the fastest improving school in Alberta, and Regional High School not far behind as the fourth fastest improving school.

The Fraser Institute released the results from the Report Card on Alberta's High Schools on July 23. The report rates 307 public, private, separate and charter schools based on five academic indicators from Grade 12 province wide testing, great-to-grade transition and graduation rates.

Special mention was given to École Mallaig School in the provincial media release, pointing out that it's a public school in northeastern Alberta with 25 per cent of its students being identified as special needs learners.

Mallaig's overall rating has steadily improved to 7.7/10 in 2015, from 3.5/10 in 2011.

When principal Tom Whitfield first saw the link to the story written about the results, he admits that he needed a moment to collect his emotions.

"To see our school being described that way on a provincial level is very rewarding for all of us," says Whitfield. "Our school is driven by dedicated and caring staff, and hardworking students who enjoy the support of the wider community."

But, despite the positive results, Whitfield notes, "one assessment can never fully capture everything that makes a school community successful." He adds later that reports like the one done by the Fraser Institute has its place, "but it is 'not the definition of what we do. We will use it as the fuel we need to keep striving to be the best we can be, at everything we do.'"

Elk Point's F. G. Miller High School had the highest ranking, 8.1/10, up from 7.6/10, and placed 24th overall in the rankings.

St. Paul Regional High School also performed well on the report, listed as the fourth fastest improving school from 2011 to 2015. Regional went from 5.6/10 in 2011 to an impressive 8.0/10, placing in 28th place overall in the rankings.

St. Paul Education Regional Division superintendent Glen Brodziak was "very, very pleased" with this year's results on the report.

"When people are dedicated, when you have parents, students, staff all committed to a common goal, it shows what can be accomplished," says Brodziak.

Haying in the 30s ready to roll

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

Over the past few weeks, volunteers have been extra busy preparing the Haying in the 30's site for one of the biggest annual event's in the area.

Due to the event growing bigger each year, Haying in the 30's president Lorne Buryn says it becomes a little more challenging to get the site ready, with more buildings to prepare and maintain.

"It's been a really hectic year," says Buryn, who was quick to acknowledge the many volunteers who take the time to ensure the Haying in the 30's site is ready, and that the weekend event runs smoothly.

Like every year, this year will feature a few new things to discover at the August long weekend event.

"We brought in a couple new things," says Buryn.

A land titles office has been added, which will allow people to try to find where their ancestors may have homesteaded in the area, and a funeral home has also been added to the site. The bazaar building has seen some upgrades, along with the kitchen.

The overall schedule for the weekend will be similar to past years. One of the weekend highlights is the Saturday morning parade, which begins at about 10:30 a.m., and will include approximately 40 teams of horses this year.

Buryn encourages people to come out to the site early to take in the parade, since parking can get tricky as things get busy.

All-day events include hay cutting, hay baling, harvesting, road construction, well boring, and more. There will also be daily demonstrations of horse shoeing, the saw mill, sheep sheering, the shingle mill, rope making, and wood splitting, among other things.

Wagon rides will allow people to make their way around the site if their legs get tired, and a viewing zoo, along with pony ride will keep the little ones busy, as well as some live entertainment on site.

A complete schedule is available on the Haying in the 30's website, along with contact information for the non-profit organization.

One of the main selling features of Haying in the 30's is that all the events that take place are free of charge. Food is free, and camping on-site is also free. All organizers ask is those who attend donate to the cause.

Haying in the 30's has been supporting people undergoing cancer treatment since 1999. Edgar Corbiere founded the event, which has grown exponentially since it began, and continues to grow each year, raising more funds and helping more people. The event is always held on August long weekend, and the site is just a short drive from the community of Mallaig.

Due to the current economic state, Buryn says organizers haven't set their sights too terribly high, and are simply encouraging people to attend the event and donate what they can.

"Times are a little tougher right now."

KUTRYK, Barry Donald INSP. (Ret'd)

June 10, 1950 - July 11, 2016

Barry Donald Kutryk, of Beauvallon Alberta, passed away on July 11, 2016. Beloved father, husband, and friend; Barry passed away with Kathy and their kids by his side at the age of 66 years, after a 12 year-long, brave battle with cancer.

Barry is survived by his loving wife of 36 years, Kathy; sons Joshua and Matthew (Hilary Anderson); and daughters Laura-Anne and Natasha (Calvin Laschowski). He also leaves behind his sisters Audrey Kotyk and Cheryl (Ken) Hlewka; and his brother John (Dona). He was predeceased by his parents, Peter and Anne (nee Byck) Kutryk of Beauvallon; and brother-in-law Don Kotyk. Barry will be sadly missed by Kathy's siblings: Shirley Pulfer, Heather Empey, Mike Empey, Roy Empey, Kevin Empey, Rosemary Empey, and especially sister Joanne Morrison. Barry will also be missed by his special aunts that he held so close to his heart: Anne Yaremchuk of Vegreville, Lilian Milne of Kelowna, Mary Yackimec of Edmonton and Irene Appleton of Surrey, B.C.

Barry was raised on the family farm south of Beauvallon, Alberta. After completing high school, he joined the RCMP and pursued an adventurous career with the force that took him to postings across western Canada, the northern territories, and the high arctic. He retired after 26 years of service so that he could move back home and finish raising his children on the family farm. It was here that he returned to his love of farming and started a cow-calf operation. He also started a second career during this time as a Certified Financial Planner.

Barry had a deep love for nature and the outdoors, spending countless hours walking and hiking in the summer, and snowshoeing in the winter. He was a passionate advocate for environmental conservation and preserving the Vermilion River Watershed.

An Evening Prayer Vigil was held at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, July 17, 2016 at the Vegreville Social Centre. A Mass of Christian Burial was held at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, July 18, 2016 at St. Martin of Tours Roman Catholic Church in Vegreville, Alberta, with Father Michael Schumacher as the Celebrant. Interment followed at the Krasna Hora Cemetery near Beauvallon, Alberta.

The family would like to extend special thanks to Dr. Louis Van Wyk and all the compassionate people at the Cross Cancer Institute.

In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Barry may be made to the Valour Place Society (c/o 11109-111 Ave Edmonton, AB, T5G 0C6) or the Alberta Cancer Foundation-Prostate Cancer Research (c/o 11560 University Ave, Edmonton, AB, T6G 1Z2).

High school rankings

When speaking about Mallaig and Regional High School specifically, Brodziak says, "It's an entire team. It's the community . . . and the leadership there, all pulling together."

Brodziak also notes that at the end of the day, the positive results belong to the students, and the main goal is always the same – to help those students achieve whatever goals they want to pursue.

The superintendent says that this year's Fraser Institute report card is a good news story for the entire division. Many other schools are also achieving well on the report card. Brodziak also notes that the division takes some issue with the Fraser report because "our schools are about so much more than what the Fraser measures." But, internal data also points to the fact that SPERD students are doing well.

"Day in and day out, the students are learning the outcomes needed . . . and as a parent, that's what I would want for my children."

SPERD board chair Heather Starosielski also notes that she too struggles with the idea of "ranking" schools, since each school is unique, "and in no way cookie cutter."

"I do appreciate that the Fraser Report is one form of measurement that has some value to assessing school improvement," she says, adding, "The board also relies on other data from Alberta Education and our own surveys to monitor success."

But, like Whitfield and Brodziak, Starosielski is also pleased to see the steady improvements taking place.

"All of our administration and educators work hard to see these advancements."

Other local schools that are included on the list include Glendon School which scored a 3.0/10, and Ashmont School scored a 0.9/10.

4-H Scholarship winners

Kailey and Lexi Wirsta, along with Emily Yaremko of St. Paul, were recognized on the Calgary Stampede Grandstand stage for their accomplishments at Summer Synergy in Olds in early July. Emily competed in the Provincial 4-H sheep show while Kailey and Lexi competed in the Canadian Charolais Youth Association conference.

These three all received scholarships and custom designed commemorative buckle, with 55 scholarships handed out in total.

Just over 350 participants competed in five components: Showmanship, Grooming or trimming, Marketing, Judging and Conformation of their livestock to receive the scholarships.

It's a great accomplishment for our local Agricultural youth!

Let the fun begin!

A few residents of Buckingham House in Elk Point received Horseshoe Pits approval and this week construction began. Dave Proudlove, Victor Johnson, Bob Abbot, Wayne Stackhouse, George Pinder and Bob's son in law Jay Maddock finished up with six-year-old Cameron Maddock testing sand for us. This evening we can enjoy hanging out and throw some shoes. We hope to revive family involvement around here!
